

Del Callaway Administrative Excellence Award Winners

The award recognizes a long-term care administrator who has demonstrated outstanding leadership and mentoring while advancing patient care and enhancing quality. Recipients of the Administrative Excellence Award are selected by the previous winners of the award.

PREVIOUS WINNERS

2022 - Calvin Callaway

Folsom Care Center
Folsom

For more than 40 years, Calvin Callaway has dedicated himself to the long-term care profession and the Folsom Care Center. During this time, Calvin has willingly performed nearly any job necessary, even during his time as Administrator – from running the kitchen for 14 days straight during COVID-19, to payroll, IT, and even handling maintenance requests. In 2015, this commitment resulted in the facility receiving a Bronze – Achievement in Quality Award, and in 2018, a Silver – Achievement in Quality Award from the American Health Care Association and National Center for Assisted Living.

The desire to do more extends beyond business matters: this approach also applies to his positions within CAHF – including his time as Chairman of the Board, Vice Chair and current role as Independent Owners/Operators Conference Chair – along with personal relationships. Calvin genuinely cares for his staff, most of whom he knows on a personal level, including their families, as he emulates the example set by his father, Del Callaway.

2021 - Erika Castile

Torrey Pines Senior Living
San Diego

With 20 years in long-term care, Erika serves as the administrator of a 45-bed post-acute and executive director of a 100-bed assisted living and memory care facility. During her tenure, she navigated Torrey Pines from a 2-Star facility to a Five-Star operation by building a culture of caring among her co-workers, residents and families. During COVID-19, Erika worked with her team to put an aggressive infection control program in place. As a result, they were COVID-free for nine months. Erika loves senior care, and it shows in her attitude and smile. She had taken time to develop other leaders and is invested in helping to share the future of long-term care through advocacy efforts. Erika has a bachelor's and master's degree in Gerontology and serves as the San Diego Chapter President. She has completed the AHCA Future Leader program and was recently appointed by the Governor to the California Commission on Aging. Erika's commitment to her staff, genuine care for residents and families and her ability to engage and advocate for the profession are a perfect trifecta for administrative excellence.
